

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

In April, 1908, as the result of informal correspondence among librarians of the Pacific Northwest, it was decided to prepare a co-operative library check-list of books and pamphlets relating to the region. The plan agreed upon was that each library should furnish a card list of its own items and that these lists so prepared should be combined into a single alphabet and published. The University of Washington Library offered its services as a medium of communication and all correspondence relative to the work has been carried on through this institution.

Tentative specifications covering scope and form of entry were sent to representative libraries for suggestions and criticisms. As soon as replies were received from all, final rules, representing the expressed wishes of a majority of the collaborators, were prepared and sent to each contributing library.

The scope of the check-list, as determined by this preliminary canvas, was made to include all books and pamphlets relating to the history of that geographical area lying north of California and west of the Rocky mountains, including the states of Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, together with British Columbia, Alaska and the Yukon. The word history has been used in its broadest sense, including a wide range of literature bearing upon the region, such as description, travel, fiction, and works written from the scientific or commercial standpoint.

The following classes of material have been excluded:

1. Manuscripts.
2. State documents, because listed in Bowker's State Publications.
3. Federal documents, to which there is some clue through government indexes.
4. Periodicals published in the region, except those devoted mainly or entirely to history, such as historical magazines. Serials, however, as year-books, proceedings and transactions of societies have been included as a part of the institutional history of the region.

In the case of state and federal documents which as a class have been excluded, exception was made of some few official and semi-official publications of special importance.

In listing the material, the Dewey Library School Rules were used as a basis, but certain modifications were made to conform to the wishes of contributing librarians.

The work began with eleven libraries represented. During its progress, two more joined the enterprise, making a total of thirteen. It is especially to be regretted that the Library of the Oregon State Historical Society could not have been included. Of those participating, two libraries, namely, the Legislative Library of British Columbia and the Portland Library Association, were unable, for lack of time, to complete their lists, both of them having omitted practically their entire collection of pamphlets.

It was found impracticable to submit proof sheets of the check-list to the different contributors for corrections or additions. Owing to varying interpretations of rules, inevitable in working from written instructions without personal conference, the list will necessarily fail to credit each library with all the items which it contains. The present publication must therefore be considered as a tentative list, a preliminary survey of the field, whose significance is for the future rather than for the present. While primarily intended as a librarian's reference book for use in a co-operative development of library resources, it is hoped that it will also prove helpful to students who wish to know what material relating to the region is now available and where it can be found.

The preparation of this list is due to the hearty co-operation of each contributor. Its publication was generously assumed by the Washington State Library, and a special debt of gratitude is due its librarian, Mr. J. M. Hitt.

DESCRIPTIVE LIST OF LIBRARIES.

L LIBRARY OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF THE PROVINCE OF BRITISH COLUMBIA, Victoria, B. C.

A reference library only, being principally for the use of legislators and government officials. It may, however, be used by the public when the house is not in session. It contains about 35,000 volumes, including pamphlets. The Dewey decimal classification is used.

The Library of the Legislative Assembly was established in 1893. The subject matter of the library is in the main of a legal and parliamentary nature. It embraces, however, a comparatively large and valuable collection of early discoveries and historical works relating to the Northwest Pacific Coast of America and the Northwest Territories of Canada.

The reading room is open to the public during government hours,—viz. from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M.—every day that the legislature is not in session.

Librarian, E. O. S. Scholefield.

M MONTANA STATE HISTORICAL AND MISCELLANEOUS LIBRARY, Helena, Montana.

A reference library containing 14,932 volumes. Open daily except Sunday from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. The privileges of the library are extended so far as possible to all citizens of the state.

The Historical Society of Montana was incorporated in 1865 "in order to collect and arrange facts in regard to the early history of this Territory, the discovery of mines, incidents of the fur trade, etc." Its first headquarters were at Virginia City. Subsequently they were moved to Deer Lodge and then to Helena. In 1893, the property of the Historical Society came under the control of the state. It was combined with the Miscellaneous Department of the State Library and on the completion of the State Capitol in 1902 the present quarters were occupied.

Librarian, William S. Bell.

Mu UNIVERSITY OF MONTANA LIBRARY, Missoula, Montana.

Contains 16,000 bound volumes and several thousand pamphlets. Open daily, except Sunday, from 8:15 A. M. to 5:30 P. M. and from 7 to 9:30 P. M. On Sunday, the hours are from 2:30 to 5 P. M. Its use is free to students and members of the faculty. Books are loaned from the library for one week. Reference books, reserved books and current periodicals do not circulate.

The library started with a collection of books donated at the organization of the University in September, 1895. It is now housed in a two-story brick building, located on the north side of the main oval.

Librarian, Gertrude Buckhous.

O UNIVERSITY OF OREGON LIBRARY, Eugene, Oregon.

Contains about 18,000 volumes. Open daily during term time from 7:45 A. M. to 5 P. M. and from 7 to 9 P. M. except that it is not open Friday evenings or Saturday afternoons. Vacation hours are from 8 to 12 A. M. and from 2 to 4 P. M. Users of the library are allowed to draw books for a period of three weeks, with renewal privileges.

The University of Oregon Library may be said to have been founded in 1882, when Mr. Henry Villard, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, contributed to the University $1,000 for books. During the four preceding years the library needs of the institution were served by collections of books belonging to the two literary societies. In 1883, Mr. Villard gave to the University an endowment fund of $50,000, one of the conditions of the gift being that not less than $400 a year should be expended for books. The library is now entering upon a period of more rapid development, made possible by increased appropriations.

Librarian, M. H. Douglass.

P LIBRARY ASSOCIATION OF PORTLAND, Portland, Oregon.

Contains about 80,000 volumes, the reference library comprising nearly 20,000 of these. The central building is open from 9 A. M. to 9:30 P. M. on week days and on Sundays and holidays the reference and periodical departments are open from 2 until 6 P. M.

The Library Association of Portland was founded in 1863 and until 1902 was a subscription library. In 1891, the library was moved into its present building on the corner of Seventh and Stark streets. On March 10, 1902, the library became free and since that time has made rapid strides, both in the acquisition of books and in the increase of membership and circulation. There are at the present time three branches, seven reading rooms and twelve deposit stations.

Librarian, Mary Frances Isom.

Pu LIBRARY OF PACIFIC UNIVERSITY, Forest Grove, Oregon.

Contains about 15,000 volumes. The part containing public documents, state and federal, is open to the public free for reference. Privilege to use the rest of the library is granted to students upon payment of $3 a year and to others upon payment of $5 a year. As student assistants are employed, the hours are not quite regular, but they are usually from 8 to 12 A. M. and from 1:15 to 4:15 P. M. during term time. No provision is made for regular opening during vacation.

The library had its origin early in the history of the school. When Doctor Atkinson went East, in 1851 or 1852, to secure teachers, he obtained a number of books which formed the nucleus of the present collection. Rev. Jedidiah Morse, who published the first American school geography, left a fine collection of works on geography, history and travel. About 500 of these volumes were given by his sons to President S. H. Marsh at one of his appeals for the school about 1860. The present librarian has held his position since 1874.

Librarian, Joseph W. Marsh.

The first library movement in Walla Walla was started in 1865, when the Walla Walla Library and Literary Association was incorporated. It was a subscription library and interest in this first movement soon died; the library was revived, however, at two different times previous to 1897, when it was established for the first time as a free public library.
